FRENCH CABINET IS TENTATIVELY COMPLETED TODAY

Premier Takes Immediate Steps to Avert General Strike

SUMMONS M. JOUHAUX
If Strike Should Go Through,
1,200,000 Workers Will
Quit Jobs

PARIS, France, Feb. 9.—The cabinet which is expected to lead France out of her political morass back to the safe road of governmental stability was tentatively completed shortly after noon today by Premier Gaston Doumergue.

The Premier then took immediate steps to avert the general strike which looms as the first menace to the successful launching of the new cabinet. He summoned Leon Jouhaux, secretary general of the Confederation of Labor and urged him to call off the strike scheduled for Monday.

If the strike is not averted immediately, 1,200,000 workers will leave their jobs.

Junior Travel Club Acts As Hostess To Other Groups

The Junior Travel Club held a meeting last evening in the Travel Club home. Three other Junior Clubs in Bucks County, Langhorne, Southampton and New Hope, were guests of the local club members. There were 55 present.

The Langhorne Club girls entertained with a play entitled, "Our Cousin From Sweden" with seven talking part.

A few local members also entertained. Miss Hilda MacArthur rendered piano selections; and a hat and cane tap dance was given by the Misses Winifred Tracy, Elizabeth LeCompte, Louise Lawrence and Eleanor Moore. The programme was in charge of Miss Frances Blanche. Refreshments were served.

GAG RULE OPPOSED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—An unprecedented bi-partisan rule to apply "gag rule" to the new income tax revision bill in the House faced opposition by insurgents in both parties today. With the new measure, estimated to raise $240,000,000 to $300,000,000 a year slated to be called up next week, leaders in both parties urged a tacit agreement to prevent the membership from authorizing the amendment.

FIREMEN LOSE BATTLE

Philadelphia, Feb. 9.—Handicapped by bursting hose lines and frozen hydrants, ice-coated firemen early today fought a losing battle against flames that devoured a four-story Pennsylvania Railroad structure occupying an entire city block. More than a score of firemen were taken to hospitals suffering from frozen hands and faces. Valuable records of the railroad were consumed in the blaze, the origin of which could not be determined.

BURIED AT BEECHWOOD

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Feb. 9.—The funeral service of Mrs. Martha Main, wife of the late Rev. Henry Main was held yesterday afternoon from Horners' funeral parlor, Langhorne, and was in charge of her pastor, the Rev. T. William Smith. Assisting in the services were the Rev. A. C. F. Ottey, pastor of the Asbury M. E. Church, Norristown; the Rev. A. B. Davidson, Trevose, and the Rev. Howard Slider, of Langhorne. Musical numbers were rendered, in the form of a quartette and duet by members of the choir of the Hulmeville M. E. Church of which church the deceased was a member. The funeral was largely attended and there were many beautiful floral pieces. The late Mrs. Main is survived by two daughters, Miss Nellie E. Main, a teacher in the schools of South Langhorne; and Mrs. Roy Fisher, Mahanoy City. The interment was at Beechwood Cemetery, Hulmeville.

BASKETBALL TILT

Two basketball games are arranged for Sunday at A. O. H. hall. Games will start at two p. m. St. Hedwigs, champions of the Trenton, N. J. City League, will meet the A. O. H. five, and the St. Hedwigs Reserves will clash with George Herman's All Stars.

HOPE CIRCLE SOCIAL

The Hope Circle of Zion Lutheran Church, held a social last evening in the parish house, Jefferson avenue. The evening was spent playing games, and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Arthur Afterbach, Mrs. Roy Jenks and Mrs. Maud McClatchey. Refreshments were served.

HULMEVILLE

William Penn Fire Company was called to the residence of John Egly, Lincoln avenue, this morning, to assist in extinguishing a chimney fire. The blaze occurred shortly after 7.30.

ELECTROCUTE FIVE NEGROES

Kilby Prison, Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 9.—"Oh yes, I'm gwine up, I'm gwine up, away up, Lord, I'm gwine up, gwine up to see the heavenly land." Chanting their way into eternity, five negroes who foresook the simple ways of the southern rural folk and slew ruthlessly in an outburst of jungle madness, went to their death in the grim Kilby prison electric chair early today. They died like men, these five murderers in a fervor of religious zeal and without murmur of complaint on their lips as the swift Alabama justice executed the toll of a life for a life in mass execution unparalleled in modern times.

MRS. SANKEY GRIEF STRICKEN

Sioux Falls, So. Dakota, Feb. 9.—Grief-stricken and weeping continually in her jail cell, Mrs. Verne Sankey today was on the point of a breakdown over the suicide of her desperado husband, confessed kidnapper of Charles T. Boettcher, 2nd. Sankey chose death rather than life imprisonment.

Under indictment for the same kidnapping and confined in the county jail here, Mrs. Sankey cried hysterically when authorities told her "Verne is dead." "She took it pretty bad," guards said.

Sankey committed suicide in his solitary confinement cell in the State Penitentiary last night by hanging himself from a cross-bar with a necktie. Unperturbed and radiating an air of unconcern, Gordon Alcorn, indicted with the Sankeys in the $50,000 ransom abduction of Boettcher, occupied a cell adjoining Sankey's. He merely shrugged his shoulders as the gangster's body was taken away to a mortuary.

LILY REBEKAH LODGE ONE OF THE YOUNGEST

MEMBERSHIP NOW IS 72

This is one of a series of articles in which an effort has been made to record the history of various organizations in this area. Some idea of that which has been accomplished by the organizations is also given and as much data is published as has been available. The information upon which the articles are based has been furnished by those still active in the organizations.

Article XII

Starting its career five years ago with 48 charter members, Lily Rebekah Lodge, No. 356, I. O. O. F., bids fair to become one of Bristol's outstanding women's organizations. In its five years of existence the membership has grown considerably, now totalling 72.

The organization of Lily Rebekah Lodge was perfected on April 13, 1929, through the intense interest and activity of Howard Fennimore.

Rebekah Lodges are affiliated with the Independent Order of Odd Fellows; and those eligible for membership are: married women who are wives or sisters of Odd Fellows; or single women over 18 years of age. "Third degree" Odd Fellows are also privileged to join.

Charity is the outstanding work among the membership, those affiliated who are in need being cared for as well as non-members. The motto is the same as for the I. O. O. F. organization, "Friendship, Love and Truth." Much charitable work is done at the Christmas and Thanksgiving seasons, gifts including mainly food and clothing.

Although organized but five years ago great interest abounds among the men and women who have their names on the roll of Lily Lodge, and the sessions which occur on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in I. O. O. F. hall are well attended, and fruit-ful.

Serving as officers of Lily Lodge, No. 356, at the present time are: Noble grand, Mrs. Isabelle Jackson; vice grand, Mrs. Harry Hinman; right supporter to the noble grand, Mrs. Robert Robinson; left supporter to noble grand, Mrs. Margaret Stewart; right supporter to vice grand, Mrs. William White; left supporter to vice grand, Mrs. Turner Ashby; recording secretary, Mrs. Wilmer Dyer; financial secretary, Mrs. George Herman; treasurer, Mrs. Fred Gould; warden, Mrs. Mary Heaton; conductor, Mrs. John Wischer; chaplain, Mrs. Howard Mitchell; past noble grand, Mrs. William DeVoe; outside guard, Mrs. Leo Hibbs; inside guard, Mrs. Howard Fennimore; degree mistress, Mrs. George Herman; musician, Mrs. Glenn West.

BOY SCOUTS TO MOBILIZE TOMORROW TO HEAR PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT DELIVER A VERY IMPORTANT MESSAGE TO THEM

Nature of Service Scouts Are To Render Is A Mystery

SOMETHING FOR RELIEF

The Bell Telephone Company
Plans Its Fullest
Co-operation

Hundreds of Bucks County boys, leaders, and committeemen are on the alert to participate in the greatest mobilization of Boy Scouts in history, which will occur tomorrow, when President Roosevelt, in a nation-wide broadcast, will personally call upon all Cub Scouts, Sea Scouts and Lone Scouts to perform an important national service. The nature of the service to be requested will remain a mystery until the moment the President addresses his audience. It is generally known that the Scouts will be asked to assist the national relief program in some practical way. If co-operation of the public is essential to the successful carrying out of the program a general invitation to participate will be issued in the course of the broadcast.

The mobilization within the Bucks County Council will have the complete facilities of the Bell Telephone Company available to render immediate service. Plant Manager Jesse Binder and assistant plant managers George Dorfner and Robert Crowell will co-operate to the fullest extent with County Boy Scout Commissioner William Burgess of Morrisville and Scout Executive William F. Livermore. In order to avoid confusion, a headquarters central, with no one knowing the number but the two divisional reporting centers, has been selected.

The county has been divided into two reporting centers. The Upper Bucks Reporting Center, Doylestown 1208, in charge of George E. Dorfner, and the Lower Bucks Reporting Center, Langhorne 39, in charge of Horace P. Townsend. Mr. Dorfner has under him six sectional reporting centers, which include: Churchville, 112-J, under Rev. A. B. Davidson (Tr. No. 14, Trevose No. 1; Tr. No. 23, Richboro No. 1; Tr. No. 50, Siles No. 1); Doylestown, 482, under Edward N. Tomlinson (Troop 6, Doylestown No. 1; Troop 9, Hartsville No. 1; Troop 68, Dublin No. 1); Doylestown, 40, under Walter N. Carwithen (Troop 15, Doylestown No. 2; Troop 33, New Hope No. 1; Troop 36, Chalfont No. 1; Troop 43, Brownsburg No. 1); Sellersville, 378, under F. Boyd Jackson (Troop 1, Sellersville No. 1; Pack 1, Sellersville No. 1; Troop 11, Perkasio No. 1; Troop 31, Almont No. 1; Troop 54, Perkasio No. 2; Pack 54, Perkasio No. 1; Troop 67, South Perkasio No. 1); Quakertown, 82-J, under Gerald Blein (Troop 4, Quakertown No. 1; Troop 16, Richlandtown No. 1; Pack 16, Richlandtown No. 1; Troop 55, Quakertown No. 2); Riegelsville, 66, under C. E. Peterson (Troop 15, Riegelsville No. 1; Troop 46, Springtown No. 1; Troop 51, Milford, N. J. No. 1).

Mr. Townsend has under him five sectional reporting centers, which include: Cornwells, 234-J, under Harry Oliver (Troop 12, Cornwells No. 1; Continued on Page Four

Quick Action of Boy Saves
Seven Cattle and Two Horses at Fire

OTHER COUNTY NEWS

Quick action on the part of Jacob Hessler, 15, hired boy, saved seven head of cattle and two horses on the Russell Schilling farm, Quakertown R. D. 1, when fire of undetermined origin destroyed a barn late Wednesday.

Hessler, who was alone at the time, noted flames leaping from the barn roof and rushed in, untied the animals and got them to safety. Schilling places the damage at $4,000.

New hours for the Morrisville police were set in an order just issued by Mayor Thomas B. Stockham, who, under the plans of the new Council has control of this department. The new hours are to give police protection later during the night and at the same time keep the expenses of the department down.

The order calls for Chief Cooper to be on duty from 8.30 to 9 a. m. and then from 11.30 a. m. to 6.30 p. m. The night officer, Joseph Lebeget, will report for duty at 8 p. m. and work until 4 a. m. On Sunday the day officer will work from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. and the night man from 8 p. m. to 4 a. m.

Under the new hours, no officer is on duty in the morning from 9 a. m. to 11.30 a. m. nor in the evening from 6.30 to 8 p. m.

It is understood there is some opposition to these off hours by the business men in the center of the borough and also by residents who claim they

LEGION AIR

(By Elmer)

Look for this column in the future and learn more of the veterans organizations—their purpose, benefits to be derived from membership, and legislation affecting veterans and their dependents.

What is the American Legion? It is the most exclusive fraternal organization or club in existence. It is composed of men and women who served in the fighting forces of their country during the World War, April 6, 1917, to November 11th, 1918, inclusive, and the one requisite to membership is an Honorable Discharge from the Service.

It is the only organization composed entirely of World War veterans recognized by the Government.

Membership in the American Legion is an honor and all those entitled to that rare privilege should take advantage of it immediately by joining their nearest Post.

It is selfish and unfair and certainly not becoming the spirit of 1917-18 for those entitled to membership to continue to remain outside leaving the work of caring for the sick and disabled to a loyal few.

If veterans and their families are to look to the veterans organizations for aid or assistance in times of sickness, sorrow, compensation claims or other services to which the veteran is entitled it is only reasonable to assume the organization performing such services would expect those eligible to membership to join.

Bracken Post is now assisting veterans to file application for the State Bonus on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, at the Post Home, 619 Radcliffe street.

Any one honorably discharged, having served between the dates of April 6th, 1917, and November 11th, 1918, is eligible to make application for the state bonus. The amount is figured at ten dollars per month from time of enlistment to date of discharge, not to exceed $200.

The beneficiary of a veteran dying during the period of the war will be paid $200.00 regardless of time served. Beneficiaries of veterans dying since discharge will be paid on the same basis as the living veteran.

Beneficiaries of deceased veterans have preference in the following order: widow, children, if any; mother, father.

Families of deceased veterans are requested to register themselves with Bracken Post and they will be contacted by Post representatives just as soon as the main rush is over.

Romantic Setting Arranged For St. Ann's Dance Tonight

There will occur tonight the second annual Valentine dance given by St. Ann's Guild. It will be one of the nicest affairs of the Guild, it is said. St. Ann's auditorium, in which the dance will take place, has been beautifully decorated. The setting, like the occasion, is very romantic.

An orchestra will be there from nine until one to make dancers' hearts throb faster and feet act lighter.

COURT HOLDS JUSTICE HAS NO JURISDICTION

Reverses Decision Given In Suit To Recover
Damages

EXCEEDED AUTHORITY

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 9.—President Judge Hiram H. Keller, in an opinion filed in the Court of Common Pleas, here, on Wednesday, reversed a decision of Justice of the Peace Irvin M. James and set aside the proceedings had before him in the Knaut-Massingier action in trespass.

Claiming damages amounting to $263, Gustaf Knaut, of Castle Valley, filed an action in trespass against Dr. Wesley Massingier, Chalfont veterinarian. The case was tried before Justice James with the Justice rendering a verdict in favor of the plaintiff.

The case was appealed to the Court of Common Pleas, and argued on a demurrer or affidavit of defense raising various questions of law.

Justice James rendered a decision against the defendant, Dr. Massingier, in the sum of $150, and the costs of the suit. The plaintiff's original claim was the sum of $250 for injuries and an additional $18 for medical and hospital expense.

President Judge Keller argued that the plaintiff brought the suit before a Justice of the Peace and secured a judgment against the defendant in the sum of $150.

"Although the allegations contained in the transcript would indicate that the injury to the plaintiff was immediate and indirect, we know of no authority under the Acts of Assembly giving jurisdiction to a Justice of the Peace in trespass for the recovery of damages done to the person, but it is restricted to damages to real and personal estates," argued the Court.

One fatality directly attributed to the cold spell of the past few days was reported this morning when it was learned that an aged Bucks County woman had died in the Abington Hospital, as the result of burns she received on Thursday.

The dead: Mrs. Barbara Rummell, 89, Iron Hill, two miles from Chalfont, Bucks County.

Thermometers registered the lowest on record in Bucks County today. At Newtown it was 23 and 26 below zero, while at Doylestown 20 below was recorded.

In Bristol the average ranged between 12 and 16 below. Some thermometers went as low as 22 here.

All CWA work came to a stop. The men reported for work but did not start. Frost yesterday in the Crofton area measured 19 and 12 inches deep.

No interference was noticed from the ice at the water pumping station but men on duty were keeping careful watch to maintain high pressures in case of fires. An emergency pump was thrown into service for a few minutes when there was an unusually heavy demand for water, during the morning hours.

Mrs. Rummell, who died of burns in the Abington Hospital, last night, was severely burned Thursday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Schaffer, Iron Hill. Due to the extreme cold the aged woman had difficulty in keeping warm and sat beside a stove in the Rummell home. She had a celluloid comb in her hand. The comb caught fire and not noticing it Mrs. Rummell combed her hair.

The odor of smoke was noticed by Mrs. Schaffer who went to see if her mother was all right. She found her in flames. Raising her own life Mrs. Schaffer after great effort succeeded in beating out the flames but not before the aged woman had almost become a living torch. The woman was rushed to the hospital.

One other daughter, Mrs. Charles Pileas, survives.

The river was frozen tight from shore to shore today, and it was tight most of yesterday. The John Wanamaker, Philadelphia ice tug, has been making daily trips up and down the river in an effort to keep the channel open and each day broke a path through. Today, however, at an early hour, the tug had not put in an appearance.

Steam jettied from the storm sewer openings along the streets, this morning indicating low temperature.

Police reported one of the coldest nights they had experienced. The officers doing patrol duty reported they turned their big, heavy collars up and tucked the ends beneath their hats in an effort to keep head and ears warm. The front of their collars was covered with ice. A thick frost also covered the buttons on their coats and the bullets in their belts.

Many were late reporting for work due to difficulty in getting their cars started.

Temperature readings in various localities today were as follows:

Tullytown—Harold Roberts, 17 below at 4 a. m.

Hulmeville—Chas. Haefner, 12 below at 7 a. m.

Emille—Benjamin Paul, 9 below at 8.30 a. m. Three other thermometers in Emille registered 22 below.

Edgely—Weller's store, 15 below at 6 a. m.

Langhorne—Pierson Candy, 15 below at 7 a. m.

Audalusia—Keaton's greenhouse, 18 below at 6 a. m.

Newportville—C. Ralph Powell, 14 below at 2 a. m.

Laurel Bend—Pitzonka's Pansy Farm, 11 below at 7.30 a. m.

Cornwells Heights—The Rev. Leslie Kiefer, 4 below at 9.15 a. m.

Despite the severe cold, all public schools of Bristol borough were in session today, as was also St. Ann's parochial school. Teachers were in their places at St. Mark's parochial school, but owing to the fact that less than half of the pupils appeared for sessions, classes were not opened.

Newspapers of this section on the last two days of December, 1917, reported "the lowest temperature in many years."

On December 30, of that year, three thermometers in Bristol registered 10 degrees below zero at 3.30 a. m., and many others stood at eight and ten below. On the 31st the majority of the readings were four below, with a number at six. The reading on the ferry-boat "William E. Doran" that day was 19 degrees below zero.

The fuel situation in the borough was stated to be serious, and coal dealers were taking orders but not promising any definite time for delivery.

Traffic on the Delaware was tied up, and the ferry-boat had gone out of commission on the 29th. The owner, the late Mr. Doran, said it was the coldest December he had ever experienced. The ferry-boat could not break

CANCER DISCOVERIES

In searching for a cure for cancer, medical science still may be a long way from its goal. Year by year, however, some progress in the study of this widely prevalent and highly fatal disease is reported.

Last year, according to Dr. Frances Carter Wood, director of the Crocker Institute for Cancer Research of Columbia University, was the most profitable, from the standpoint of discoveries in cancer research, of any year since study of the disease began. This does not mean that a cure or the cause has been found. It does mean, though, that research workers are beginning to get a glimpse behind the scenes, as it were, of what has proved to be one of the world's most baffling diseases.

Cancer studies, said Dr. Wood, have reached the stage "when it can be said that they cast important light on the future possibility of controlling cancer." This statement coming from a conservative medical man is important.

The four major discoveries of last year related to a general survey "of the question of immunity against the inoculation of cancer, which could be produced in animals by a variety of methods"; the effect of certain tissue extracts on tumors; a study "which points to the means of avoiding cancer," and "that astonishing discovery . . . of two synthetic substances which have an extraordinary capacity of rapidly producing cancer in those animals into which they have been injected."

The importance of the last-named discovery was explained as being due to the fact that it would enable experts to study the earliest stages of the disease, by "seeing, so to speak, the cell's take on their malignant qualities."

Patent and persistent work eventually will bring their reward in the form of a preventive or a cure. Such a result seems certain but how far off it may be none yet can say.

RUSSIA IN DEAL

In extending an $8,000,000 gold credit to Turkey, Russia is strengthening her friendship with that nation and at the same time furthering her foreign trade.

It is the political aspect of the deal that will command chief attention in Europe but the matter has another angle that is not without interest.

The credit is to be used for the purchase in Russia of machines required in carrying forward the industrial recovery program now getting under way in Turkey. It shows that the Soviet is not averse to resorting to capitalist methods where these may promise to benefit Russian world trade. It is another step away from the plan of government as originally held by the Soviet.

But Russia is badly in need of foreign trade. She needs to swap some of her raw materials for goods she is unable to produce. If she can do this by borrowing a few thoughts from capitalism, she is ready to do it. Some of the Soviet's other prejudices may crumble under further contact with capitalist nations.

Uncle Sam owns all the gold but he is still off the gold standard.

It doesn't make a man hateful to quit smoking. He just acts that way so his wife will urge him to start again.

SYNOPSIS

Lovely Stanley Paige could have married any eligible man in her set—there was, for instance, the young lawyer, Perry Deverest, loyal and reliable, but she fell in love with dashing, irresponsible Drew Armitage. Drew told Dennis St. John, his former sweetheart, that although he would have loved Stanley under any circumstances, he would never have become engaged to her had she been poor. Then comes the crash and Stanley's fortune is wiped out. She does not care as long as she has Drew's love, but . . . he says it would be madness to marry on his income. So with a dramatic . . . "Stanley, I shall never forget you and I shall always regret having hurt you—but never having loved you," he passes out of her life. Though broken-hearted, Stanley accepts the blow stoically. She refuses to accept charity from her friends, leaves her luxurious apartment, and rents a cheap furnished room where she meets Valerie Blair, a salesgirl. Valerie is very kind to Stanley and urges her to have supper with her.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

"We could have eaten at the drug store on the corner—I usually do. But when it's so darn hot I have to have a little incentive or I can't eat at all. Then I come here and pay twice as much for a crab-meat salad just so's not to have to twist my legs around a stool. Say, you'd better order something quick—you look about all in." Valerie frowned abruptly, stared at Stanley anxiously. "Do you feel funny or anything?"

"A little," admitted Stanley, lifting a glass of water to her lips to stop their shaking. "I guess I forgot lunch—I've had a rather nervous day."

"Most days are hectic when it's so hot your clothes stick to you like they were glued on. Listen, honey, you'd better have a cup of tea right away—that'll fix you up. No fooling, you look all in!"

The tea was hot and strong and Stanley responded to it promptly. "I feel better. I guess I needed that rather badly."

Valerie tinkled the ice in her glass of iced coffee and considered Stanley gravely. "Going to be with us long, Mrs. Foley's I mean."

"I don't know—I suppose so."

Valerie buttered a roll. Her fingers were quick and slim and ringed. On one white wrist a cluster of silver bracelets jangled softly. Beneath the edge of her off-the-face hat, her bright gold hair hung in damp scollops about a face that was white with heat and fatigue, but her eyes ignored the weariness of her mouth; they were brightly blue and filled with a quick, eager interest and a sort of quaint humor. They looked as if, knowing life to be a rather shabby, tawdry thing, Valerie could still squeeze it hard and get a little kick out of it.

"It's not so bad," she told Stanley now, referring to Mrs. Foley's. "It might be worse. There's no rules or regulations like there are in some of the recommended places. Mrs. Foley's not a bad sort either. Some of 'em are so darned inquisitive! But as long as you pay your rent, come in quietly after midnight and don't destroy her furniture, she doesn't bother with you. Never struck anything like this before, have you?"

"No, not exactly."

"Well," grinned Valerie cheerfully, "you won't like it. I don't. I've been there ever since I came down here two years ago from Maine—there's ten in my family and we get popped out of the nest as soon as we get through high school. I got a job first as a stock girl at twelve dollars a week. You a couple of months I lived on peanuts! Then I got a lucky break. I got a chance to model in a fashion show and then a regular job at this place on Fifty-eighth. I get twenty-five dollars now and by fall I'll be doing even better. I could live in a better place. I could go in with a couple of girls who have an apartment over on Thirty-sixth Street but it's too crowded. I'm going to wait until I can have just what I want—a fireproof safe and a kitchen and an honest-to-goodness bathroom. Gosh, but I'm sick of running down cold halls with a tube of tooth paste and a cake of soap!"

"Whatever happened to you must have been pretty bad," said Valerie.

Stanley thought of the black and rose bathroom in Alita Lawson's apartment, of the sunken tub, the crystal and silver bottles, the deep shining mirrors. And she thought she had come a long way since morning—a long way, indeed.

They finished their dinner and walked back through the heat to the brownstone house. Children swarmed on the pavements and women leaned in windows and sat on doorsteps. The air was heavy with the smell of roasting peanuts and not asphalt and decaying fruit. The sun had gone down but the city still sprawled in an indolent, suffocating languor unable to arouse itself from the terrible punishment it had received all day.

Later a little breeze might come up and stir through the parched trees in the park, scatter dirty newspapers up alleys, and drift in across sodden pillows, but now it was still and breathless and intolerably hot.

Valerie followed Stanley into the little room at the end of the hall and flung herself down on the bed. "I hope you don't mind my putting in like this, dragging you out to dinner and everything, but anyone can see that you are your own worst company. If you want me to beat it, just say so and I'll toddle along."

Stanley was making a half-hearted attempt at unpacking. She answered at once, not looking at the girl on the bed. "No. Please stay." She didn't want to be alone. Things came so much closer when you were alone.

Valerie's keen eyes were taking in every detail of the lovely things Stanley was flinging heedlessly onto the bed, little heaps of silken lingerie, silver and crystal toilet bottles, expensive little jars of cosmetics. She looked at Stanley's slim brown pumps, at the clever simplicity of her tan frock, and knew with the sagacity of one who had served her apprenticeship in a smart shop, exactly how much they had cost.

She screwed her eyes up thoughtfully, spoke abruptly. "Whatever happened to you must have been pretty bad. Wasn't there any way of staying where you were? Friends to rally round and what-not?"

Stanley tossed orchid pajamas onto the bed, sat back on her heels, and clasped her hands about her knees. She regarded the blond girl with meditative gray eyes. "I suppose you want to know what it's all about, well, I don't see why you shouldn't."

"Not unless you want to tell me. It's entirely up to you."

Stanley shrugged. "I've already told you about the money—what I didn't tell you was that when I lost it the man I was engaged to gave me some good advice and left town. I didn't care so much about the money, but I'm just fool enough to be rather shy to pieces about the man."

Valerie's eyes had gone swiftly sympathetic. She propped her chin on her hands and stared at Stanley wisely through thick, golden lashes. "You'll get over the man, all right," she told her quickly, "but it's certainly awful about the money. There are men and men in this world and one is about as good as another, but it's the devil to be poor. I'm telling you straight and I ought to know. I've never been anything else."

She rolled over onto her flat little stomach and continued to regard Stanley with solemn blue eyes. "When you're poor you've got to squeeze every nickel and make it do the work for two. You've got to get along without things you want, and sometimes without things you need. You've got to be satisfied with cheap clothes and cheap food and cheap fun. You'll hate it—I do." She laughed abruptly, a bit huskily. "There's no doubt about it, little one, you've jumped the wrong way! The thing for you to do is trot back to your friends and let them do something for you. They would, wouldn't they?"

Stanley nodded. "I expect so. They'd probably do a lot. But I can't see things that way. I'm really a coward, I suppose. I haven't got the courage to accept charity. I'd hate to know they were pitying me."

"Well, it's your funeral, old dear, but I'll bet you a package of Camels, you'll beat it back to your side of the fence inside of a month, a sadder but wiser child."

THIRD WARD ELIMINATES ST. ANN'S CAGE TEAM

The St. Ann's A. A. basketball team was eliminated from the second half race of the Bristol Basketball League last night on the Italian Mutual Aft floor when the quintet dropped a 29-13 decision to the Third Ward A. C. in a low-scoring tilt.

Field goals were scarce in the battle. The Saints were credited with six double-deckers while the Third Warders received four. Incidentally three players, Fandetta, Russo and DeBoskey, were credited with all the field goals. In the third period no twin-pointers were made.

"Butch" DeBoskey again led the Pikers to victory. Butch scored all of the winners' two pointers and added five foul shots to run his total to thirteen for the night. The Pikers' victory came as the result of foul tosses although they sank in but twelve in 23 tries.

In the final twenty-seconds left to play, Bornice, of the Purple and Gold, was fouled in the act of shooting and Referee Rosenthal allowed two shots. A perfect throw on the part of the St. Ann's guard would have deadlocked the score but Bornice missed the first try and then slammed the ball hard to get the rebound on the second try. The strategy worked as far as the rebound was concerned but the player missed the try for the field goal and all hopes were gone.

"Bucky" Russo and Dominick Fandetta were the leading scorers of the losers with eight points each.

TEAMS DEADLOCKED FOR THE LEAGUE LEADERSHIP

The Paterson Parchment Paper Co. team moved into a deadlock for first place in the Bristol Basketball League last night in the second match of the night when the quintet crushed the Knights of Columbus, 32-20. It was the third straight win for the Paper Millers.

The Parchment Company exhibited one passing and shooting to triumph over the Caseys and its sensational passing led to many fine field goals which came in such fast order that after the second period the Knights were out of the race.

"Big Ike" Kovalich was the big gun in the Paper Mill's attack last night. Kovalich roving in a forward post hit the cords for four field goals and two fouls for a total of ten points. He was closely followed by Hines who accounted for nine points. Every player on the winning team scored three points or more.

Manager Craven introduced a new player in his line-up in the person of "Bill" Hart, former Bristol High star. Hart in the final quarter scored two beautiful field goals which drew an ovation from the spectators.

On Monday night, Y. M. A. clashes with the K. of C. and the Hawks play the Odd Fellows.

The entire membership of the Boy Scouts, 904,240, will be called together to listen to President Roosevelt's message. The more than a million Scout parents and the 5,409,368 others who have had Scouting experience will be asked to unite also in meeting the President's summons. The extent of the vast audience that will greet the President is gathered from the fact that, with those named there will be the 1,268,446 who were members of the Boy Scouts of America during 1933, and the 14,500 new Scouts who have joined the movement since the first of the year. The "Call to Service" will be broadcast over the coast-to-coast network of the Columbia Broadcasting System and the Ret Network (NBC-WEAF) of the National Broadcasting Company. In addition to the "Call to Service" the President is expected to draw attention to the forthcoming "Silver Jubilee" of the Boy Scouts of America, which will be celebrated throughout 1935. In this connection it is expected that President Roosevelt will extend an invitation to the Boy Scouts which will pave the way for a national celebration to mark the completion of the first quarter century of the Boy Scout movement in the United States. After his war-time service as Assistant Secretary of the Navy had ended, Franklin D. Roosevelt returned to New York to embark upon a business career. The Boy Scouts of Greater New York needed a new and vigorous leader and they went to Mr. Roosevelt. He finally agreed to accept the chairmanship of the Greater New York Committee on Scouting organized to rene and rehabilitate the organization so that thousands of city boys might have troops and camps and meeting places.

Writes About Beavers And Some Boy Tricks

the locks, while Harry, much younger than the others, secreted the beavers in the barn of his home and also furnished the lumber used. My little sister and I, in quest of pussy willow branches, happened to come upon the trio busily engaged in building a sort of dam at the intersection of the mill pond and mill race. We were promptly stoned away. At a safe distance we watched them trying to ball out the water by buckets, and we boastfully remarked that we could get that water out with our daddy's boat pump in no time. Dick, knowing the value of the pump, told us it we loaned them the pump they would show us animals that would get as a vacation from school but we must not tell or they would throw us in the pond. Unobserved by our parents, we succeeded in this task. Four days later under cover of darkness the pump was returned and as a reward for the services we rendered we were permitted to see the beavers.

A few days later after a heavy rain the freshet occurred. To this day no one ever knows whether the beavers or the boys caused that freshet. However, the beavers were blamed. I was only a small child at the time and it was many years later when I met Tom, then a successful and respected business man of New Jersey, he recalled it to my mind and through the eyes of maturity we then realized the havoc we wrought and I learned the details of the story.

Time goes on; my little sister, Tom and Dick have passed away. Harry, one of Uncle Sam's brave soldiers of the late World War, is an invalid in a government sanatorium many miles away.

The old adage has it that murder will eventually out and as honest confession is good for the soul, I am breaking the silence of over a quarter of a century in writing this article.

At the council meeting of the Langhorne Manor Borough held Feb. 5th an ordinance was passed reducing the borough tax from 5½ mills to 4 mills. Light tax will be 3½ mills and bond tax 1 mill, making a total of 8½ mills. This is the second reduction in two years.

The Manor School Board is considering a reduction, to be discussed at their next meeting, the rate now being 8 mills.

The County Commissioners have recommended a reduction of 10% in all real estate assessments, which Langhorne Manor Borough has adopted.

The Council has ordered the resurfacing of Park, Prospect, Highland and Hulmeville avenues and Pine St. The Hulmeville avenue bridge over the Reading Railroad is open to traffic and the approach will be resurfaced as soon as the weather permits.

The citizens of Langhorne Manor Borough are pleased with the efficient manner in which the Council has conducted the affairs of the borough.

The Makefield Mothers' Club met on Monday in the Edgewood School

House. After the opening exercises and a brief business session, Mrs. George Robbins, the hostess, introduced Dr. Allen Moore, of Doylestown, who spoke on "Sex Hygiene."

Mrs. Anna Roberts reported the club institute to be held at Langhorne, on February 15, which the club members were invited to attend by the Langhorne Sorosis, the hostess club. A winter conference to be held in Doylestown on February 19, was announced.

The Makefield Mothers' Club will hold a dance and card party on Saturday evening at the Makefield school auditorium on the Yardley-Falls road. The committee in charge of the arrangements is as follows: Mrs. J. Howell Johnson, Mrs. Norman Conover, Mrs. Eugene Stapler, Mrs. William Johnson, Mrs. Norman Rowe, Mrs. Maurice Stradling, Mrs. Charles Jamison, Mrs. George Robbins, Mrs. Charles Clausen, Mrs. Joseph Heald, Mrs. Lincoln Updyke, Mrs. Thomas Crooks, Mrs. Anthony VanHouse and Miss Esther Yardley.

its way to the Burlington dock, as the river ice was 12 inches thick. A hole was broken through the ice on the river at the foot of Market street, and this froze over almost immediately, it was reported. Men walked across the river on the 30th, and winter sports enthusiasts started skating on the river on the 31st.

Hundreds of water pipes in homes here were frozen, and congregations at local churches were at the minimum. Trains on the Pennsylvania Railroad were said to be hours late on the 30th and 31st.

The accounts of that cold spell mentioned that several years previous, thermometer readings had been five below.

Shipyards activities during the last few days of 1917 were handicapped.

Shooting at the Mile Mark

By BURNLEY

FEATURING the current indoor track season, which got under way with a bang last Saturday, will be the mile duels between the country's premier middle distance runners.
Gene Venzke, of Penn. holder of the present indoor record of 4:10 for the eight furlongs, is out to re-establish his supremacy at the mile distance. Last year his reputation was dimmed by several defeats at the hands, or rather feet, of Glenn Cunningham, the West's best performer. Venzke managed to nose out the lion-hearted Kansas flyer in the A. A. U. indoor championships, but the westerner seemed to have Gene's number in their other indoor clashes.

In the coming indoor meets, the sinewy Penn speedster must face Bill Bonthron, Princeton's great iron man, and Glenn Dawson, Oklahoma ace, as well as his old enemy Cunningham.

Venzke is only 23 years old, and should be at the peak of his running form now. He has the benefit of the training directions of Lawson Robertson, Penn track coach, who is the most famous athletic mentor in the land. There really doesn't seem to be any reason why this mystery man of the track shouldn't regain the form he flashed in 1932, and even surpass it. The next few weeks will tell the story. Gene may go on to even greater triumphs, or he may fall as dismally as in 1933.

At any rate, Mister Venzke's 4:10 mark is certainly rocking precariously on its pedestal. Bill Bonthron has beaten that time outdoors, and so has Cunningham. When this trio get together, one of them will probably be pushed to a new world's record. Certainly eastern track fans will witness some of the most stirring mile races in track history during the next couple of weeks.

OLDSMOBILE OFFERS BIGGER, MORE BEAUTIFUL EIGHT.....AT LAST YEAR'S LOW PRICE...$845!

OLDSMOBILE WILL SOON INVADE THE LOW-PRICE FIELD WITH NEW ALL-FEATURE SIX...$640!

YOU EXPECT some improvements in any new car... But—double your expectations! You'll still fall 'way short of the wealth of beauty and improvements with which General Motors has endowed the 1934 air-stream Oldsmobiles.

KNEE-ACTION WHEELS
Knee-Action Wheels! Each front wheel, cushioned on its own flexible coil spring, moves up and down like a knee—"walks" over bumps and holes without jarring the car or the passengers.

SUPER-HYDRAULIC BRAKES
Center-Control Steering banishes shimmy and shake. The slightest finger touch holds the car to its course. A built-in Ride Stabilizer prevents sway and roll on curves. There is a steadiness and a clinging-to-the-road almost unbelievable.

CENTER-CONTROL STEERING
Stopping? The new self-energizing Super-Hydraulic Brakes do it quicker, surer, safer. These new brakes are a tremendous advancement over the conventional type of hydraulic brake.

RIDE STABILIZER
More room? It's there. Quietness? It's there. Oldsmobile's Syncro-Mesh Transmission is quiet in ALL speeds; body and engine are cradled in rubber to absorb vibration.

POWER
Power? 90 horsepower in the new Straight Eight... 84 in the new low-price Six. The priceless year-round comfort of Fisher No Draft Ventilation. Precision-built throughout—with all the ruggedness, performance and economy for which Oldsmobile is famous.
